'Possum and sweet taters looming!

From all reports Brand Whitlock is not a brand.

'Tis said cradles have at last reached rock-bottom prices.

Bryan gets cussed and about $300 a night for what he says.

Eatopolis is what old Colonel Webster would describe as obs. for Columbia.

RS)XRS)XSHRDLU. - Greenville News. We knew it all the time.

Ha! Charleston News and Courier didn't roast Mr. Bryan last Thursday morning!

Crown Prince William of Germany died again last week, so it is reported from Petrograd.

If this thing keeps up, London and Paris will be the only two towns in Europe the Germans haven't captured.

John D. must contemplate making a double donation to some college, judging by the recent rise in the price of gasoline.

Even Senator Hoke Smith ought to be satisfied with the president's note to England. Teddy says it's all right, but—!

It is estimated that it will take about 15,000 days for those 15,000 words of Woodrow's to "soak in" on the average British mind.

Surgeon General Blue probably doesn't feel that way. It has just been announced that he will hold his job another four years.

William Jennings Bryan will speak in Anderson tomorrow, the 19th, and it goes without saying that there will be no empty seats.

If some of our so-called statesmen had their way about it the United States would be at war with both Germany and the Allies.

It is so very difficult—almost impossible, sometimes—to tell exactly where business sagacity ends and downright rascality begins.

We notice by the papers that a Mr. Whitlock has just left Belgium for his health. We didn't imagine that was a very healthy place.

The trouble with the Allies is that they say what they are going to do at some future date, while the Germans just go ahead and do.

Spartanburg Journal can be found on sale at Tryon, N. C., but, as Booker would ask, who wants to go to Tryon, N. C., for a Spartanburg Journal?

We would call the attention of Mr. Gonzales, sport writer, to the fact that a Pickens county boy stars in every game played by the University of South Carolina football team.

It is estimated that it costs England nearly twenty-two million dollars a day to keep her end of the war going. How long will her share of that half billion dollar loan last at that rate?

"Tom Watson's clothes won't fit Joe Brown" is the heading of an advertisement in the Hartwell (Ga.) Sun. And besides that, "Little Joe" wouldn't wear Tom Watson's clothes if they did fit.

Spartanburg is to have a city park of 125 acres. That's nothing as compared with Pickens' city park, which extends from the city limits clear up to the North Carolina line. And it's a beauty, too.

Nothing sits so gracefully and so becomingly and so beautifully upon the deportment of boys and girls as profound respect and deferential consideration for their elders, and particularly for their parents. And sometimes we are almost led to believe that this resplendent virtue is one of the "lost arts."

"I believe I'll stand," Says Seedy C. Phatt, "In front of the bank— There's money in that."

OUR WEEKLY RIDDLE.—What do lawyers do when they die?
Lie still.

A majority of over 400,000 against Elihu Root's proposed new constitution for New York state put a crimp in his presidential boom that's liable to cost him the empty honor of the Republican nomination. Not much loss.

And now British statesmen admit that the war news being sent out under London date lines has been doctored; that the Berlin reports of losses and gains have been more accurate. Now, let's hear from Petrograd.

One noticeable result in the recent elections was the fact that many of the Bull Moosers who had no party to speak of refused to return to the standpat ranks; and rather than have no vote at all, joined with the Democrats.

In a very short while now we will have with us the esteemed Congressional Record, teeming with warlike speeches galore, both those delivered on the floor of congress and those in the minds of some alleged statesmen.

One of the big differences between W. J. Bryan and his corner store critics who delight in calling him an ass and windjammer is that W. J. gets about $300 a night for "windjamming," while most of his critics get nothing for theirs.

They have installed a printing office in the state asylum in Columbia, we suppose as a test to find out who is eligible to remain in the asylum. As long as anyone is willing to work in the printing office he will be kept in the asylum.

Greece wants to borrow eight million dollars from the Allies and the Allies want to borrow more than that from anyone who will loan it to them and Mexico wants a few million. And we would also like to make a loan of about six bits from someone.

Age is evidently no bar to a North Carolina man's political ambitions. We notice that a man who was a member of the University of North Carolina football team when it licked Virginia is running for lieutenant governor up there. The main plank in his platform is that he was a member of the team that licked Virginia. He'll be elected.

Congressman Kitchin, Democratic leader of the lower house of congress, is opposed to President Wilson's armament plan, and it is the opinion of many other public men that a nation founded on liberty; a nation whose people have recognized the principle that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed;" a nation that seeks no territory of other people and has no desire for colonial possessions—such a nation has no need for a big navy nor a big standing army.

BUYING FROM STRANGERS

WE always have imagined that P. T. Barnum was at one time a business man in a small town, for it was he who is said to have coined the phrase, "The Public Likes to be Humbugged."

We always think of Barnum whenever we see a crowd gather around a street-corner fakir and pay him their good money for stuff that a local business house would not dare try to sell. Yet there are hundreds of people swindled by every fakir who comes along and remain anxious to give the next one still more of their money.

Consistency of business. Mr. Man or Mrs. Woman, should show you that you always get better value from your home merchant than will ever be given you by anyone else. The home firm has its reputation to maintain. Heed the invitation of men you know. This week they are talking to you through our advertising columns:

A VISIT TO THE STATE FAIR

Dear Bill:
Well as I didn't get to see you last week I will do like you told me and write you some more about that fair trip what I taken to Cola.

Well, Bill, I told you about getting there and finding a place to stay. Well, I got up soon Thurs. morning and got ready to go out to the fair grounds. You know Thurs. was the big day, Bill, and there shore was some people there. It was said there was 50 thousand people and a good many Chas. tonians in the city, but Bill, I bedinged if I see how they counted 'em. I couldn't.

Well, Bill, the street cars was so crowded I decided to go out in a automobile. You know there aint nothing like putting on style when you go to town now. Well I found a empty automobile and just as I was getting in up come two more fellows what wanted to go so they got on the same seat with me. One of 'em had on a plug hat, Bill, and I found out they was preachers. That shore did embarrass me, Bill, cause I didn't have a bit of sen-sen and I was shore scared. But it was ok. They didn't ask me for a thing.

Well, Bill, I got inside the fence and started to follow the crowd. We got to the door of a big building and a fellow was there giving away chewing gum. I didn't take none at first, Bill, because I hadn't saw anybody giving away anything down there before and I thought maybe this was one of them skin games you was telling me about. But I hung around there awhile and saw everybody else taking it so I went back and got me some. Then I'd slip back out and get me some more as I come back in, Bill. It took me a good while to get my pockets full, but at last I did.

Then I went on down the lane looking at the exhibits and down at the next corner there was a cripple fellow sitting in a little chair. His feet looked like they was in a awful fix and his legs was all drawed up an looked like they was tied together. And, Bill, I noticed he held out his hand and there was a handful of dimes and nickles in it. I thought he was giving it away. Bill, like that chewing gum fellow was, and I got me some of 'em and walked on. Well, Bill, I hadn't walked far before somebody touched me not light on the shoulder and when I looked around I saw it was the cripple fellow and he said give him that money back that the people give it to him cause he couldn't walk. I told him he ought to give me that for curing him, but I give it back to him. Bill, he had a stick in his hand.

Well, Bill, after I taken in all the exhibits I went to where the side shows was. The first one I come to there was a man and several women out in front of it a-singing and hollerin and going on, and they called it the choo choo or something like that, Bill. I forget the name. Well, Bill, I didn't go in this one. There was too big a scrouge.

Well, Bill, I went on down to the next one and it looked just about like the other one, only it wasn't the same name. I didn't go in this one neither. Bill. It was nearly time for the football game now, Bill, so I decided I'd wait till later to go to the side shows, but I walked on down past a long row of them, and, Bill, there was a man standing in front of every show with a big funnel in his mouth trying to play a tune on it. It must be a new fashioned tune. I never did understand it.

Well, Bill, I went to the foot ball game, but will tell you about that when I see you. I'll tell you how it come out too.

I hear the old sows raising the dickens, Bill, so I'll have to go see what's the matter with them and will close. Solong, Bill.

As ever and ever, G—
P. S. A lot of fellows wanted to go to the asylum and penitentiary, Bill, but I never went to neither place. You know we have already been to both. G—

Too Many Laws

The other day we heard a fellow say that between the legislators and the agitators about the only liberty a poor man had left was to go to all-day singings. It looks that way, and we wouldn't be a bit surprised if some legislator doesn't try to abolish the all-day singings next January.—Pickens Sentinel.

And there are those who would not permit us to whistle. Everything must be regulated by law these days. And the trouble with it all is that there are so many foolish laws that the best of citizens violate some law every day and it results in a disgust and disregard for all law, and lawlessness follows.—Newberry Herald and News.

J. Douglas Yonque, who has been the efficient and accommodating assistant to Dr. Lewis at the Keowee Pharmacy for several years, has resigned his position there and can now be found at the Pickens Drug Co. store. A. Vincent Hamilton, who has been with the Pickens Drug Co., will spend several weeks at his home in Easley before accepting one of the several places which he is considering. Jack Sutherland of Dacusville has accepted a position in the Keowee Pharmacy. He is well known here, having graduated at the high school last year.
